

It was a week that was equivalent to an emotional roller-coaster.

We sat with baited breath, waiting to see what the rest of the country was going to do. For many of us, we were not surprised by the outcome, and for others, it solidified their decisions that something had to be done in the west. Unfortunately, many people don't know what that is or what that entails. Many frustrated Albertans agree that we need to do something drastic, but what does that mean or look like?

Many Albertans are on the fence. They agree that something has to be done and want change and are opposed to any idea to become the 51st state.

Many Albertans want to separate, yet have no idea what that means or entails. The 51 statehood movement knows exactly what needs to happen in order for us as Albertans to have real freedom. This means we need to join the USA. We cannot stand alone as our own country, but we can become a state and have more control over our resources and healthcare and even treaty rights can have a actual chance of being heard and maybe something can actually be accomplished. Unfortunately, the Trump derangement syndrome hits people on both sides, Liberal or Conservative. Few of us understand what needs to happen and how.

Maybe we have to actually use our critical thinking and weigh all our options, and choose the lesser of the evils.

You don't have to like Trump, but you do have to love freedom. In turn, it outweighs the fact that Trump is president. The benefits are overwhelming when considering becoming a state.

We need people, men, and women like you to help educate and provide information to the doubting Thomas's, and we need people like you to help spread the truth of this movement. We need to move fast. We can't follow the sheep into the never-ending fight of becoming a separate nation. This is not viable or feasible, and we need to get the information out.

This weekend was one of the many gatherings the statehood independence movement had in Lodgepole Alberta. We gathered together as one heart and one voice that clearly wants the same thing, and that is for freedom. It was 75% sign up for support for statehood. We had special speakers and activities for kids. It was a family event, and it was one of the many events to come this year as we tried to inform Albertans about what statehood actually brings to the table. We will be meeting again. This time, it will be in beautiful Hinton.

The rally in Hinton Alberta will be on Friday, May 9th. 12:00 - 6:00. Location to be announced.
